A black bear was seen by Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuthill and Miss Flora Tuthill Saturday evening as they were going by automobile over Potter hill in Guilford. The bear sat beside the road and at first they thought it was a dog, but as they drew nearer and the animal sat on his haunches they saw that it was a bear Bruin did not move off, but remained quiet as the automobile went past, but before the party were out of sight they aw him roll over in the road.

It is expected that the 10th United States cavalry of 800 men and 900 horses will encamp on the Valley fair grounds the night of Aug. 31. The superintend-ent of the association has replied to inquiries as to whether the regiment could have the grounds for use that night and has informed the colonel in command as to the cost to the gov-ernment, but no reply has been received The cavalry will start June 29 on a 600-mile hike into Massachusetts and Con-necticut and return to Fort Ethan Allen by way of the western part of the

The Windham county Democratic convention will be held in Brattleboro Tuesday, July 30, and will be called to order in Grange hall at 10.30 o'clock. The posters announcing the convention state that the call is for "the Democrats of Windham county, and all others op-posed to a government of privilege and extortion." The representation will be extortion." The representation will be as follows: Athens 2, Brattleboro 18, Brookline 1, Dover 2, Dummerston 2, Grafton 2, Guifford 3, Hallfax 2, Ja-maica 2, Londonderry 2, Mariboro 1, Newfane 2, Putney 2, Rockingham 10, Somerset 1, Stratton 1, Townshend 2, Vernon 2, Wardsboro 2, Westminster 3, Whittischam 5, Wilmington 5, Windham Whitingham 5. Wilmington 5, Windham 1, making a total of 73. The county committee consists of Rollin S. Childs, F. F. Shepard, A. P. Carpenter, Daniel H. Cray, Leonard A. Brown, C. E. Skinner and T. W. Plimpton.

Weather conditions were ideal for the seventh annual baby meet on the com-mon Saturday afternoon and when the parade of the children and their parents began there were 125 children under five years of age present to take part in it, and nobody knows how many older children. The First Regiment Band gave a concert, beginning at 4 o'clock. The parade around the monument was led Helen, the six-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Thompson. Fol-lowing this feature the mothers and the children struck up acquaintances with each other and three group pictures were taken by Floyd E. Johnson. The pictures may be seen in A. F. Roberts's store. The first meet was arranged seven years ago by Mrs. C. C. Fitts and Mrs. H. C. Rice and one has been held each year since.

In answer to queries, farmers in this locality reply that despite the long drought crops will average as well this year as in seasons when there has been more rain. Hay crops, as a rule, are about the same as last year although many tarmers report that they have cut more than in recent seasons. The crop at the Retreat is about up to the average and although the south end of the meadow has not yielded very much hay, the north end, nearer the West river, is above the average. In Dummerston, Walter Walker, who has a hill farm, says that his crop has been above the average this year and that it appears that hill farms will yield more hay than river farms. Potato crops probably will be better than the average and many fine looking fields of potato plants may be seen about here. A. W. Roel, super-intendent of the Retreat farms, has a fine looking field on the former golf grounds on Cedar street. He says it is grounds on Cedar street. He says it is the best field he has had in recent years. Corn is growing well and a large crop practically is assured.

Frank Godfrey Morse, 37, died in the Retreat early Monday morning after an illness of several years' duration. He had lived in this town about eight years and until a year ago last April was a house-cleaner. He went from here to his relatives in Brooklyn, N. Y., and after a few months was sent to an asylum in New York state and then was sent to this town to the Retreat. He was born on an English ship on the high seas and therefore was an Englishman but never had made England his home, as he had roamed extensively about the world before coming to this town. He came her from New London, About seven years ago he married Daisy May Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Lucy Phillips of this town. Besides his wife he leaves an aged father and brothers and sisters in Brooklyn. Mr. Morse was a trick violin play er and had a number of tricks whice he often performed for the entertain-ment of his friends. He had appeared in public, playing the instrument and performing trick tunes upon it. The fu-neral was held Wednesday afternoon in Bond & Son's undertaking rooms, Rev. Dr. J. R. Gow, paster of the Baptist church officiating. The burlal took place in Meeting House Hill cemetery and the bearers were Edwin D. Phillips, George A. Phillips, Leo Phillips and William H. Gaige.

A "lion show" in the south window of the Twin State Gase & Electric company's store in the American building has been attracting much notice this week. A figure of a lion was put in the window the day the circus came. Stand-ing before a representation of African scenery the animal appears very life-like as he nods his head and opens his mouth. The figure advertises a gas heater for heating water.

The street cars will run an hour late on Saturday nights beginning July 20. Other nights the schedule will be as at present. On Saturday nights the cars will leave the Main street bridge at 10.10 and 10,40 for West Brattleboro and at 10.20 and 10.50 for Prospect Hill. The last car will arrive at the Main street bridge at 11.10 from Prospect Hill and at 11.20 from Prospect Hill and At from West Brattleboro, and both cars will be held until 11.30.

Victor Colton, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Colton of High street, fell from he second to the first story in E. C. Prosby's new garage at the corner of High and Green streets Monday after noon and fractured his arm in two places below the elbow. The boy had been employed during the vacation as water carrier. He probably stepped on the end of a board which overlapped one of the steel girders. He was taken to the Memorial hospital and Dr. C. S. Pratt attended him.

While the circus parade was passing ver the Connecticut river bridge at the over the Connecticut river bridge at the foot of Bridge street Monday noon one of the planks gave way under the weight of a heavy wagon. Selectman A. E. Merrill was notified and replaced the broken plank with a new one. Many of the planks need repairing, but the selectmen are waiting for the railroads to come to some sort of an arrangement concerning the work on this side of the concerning the work on this side of the river before they expend much money for repairs on the bridge.

An injunction restraining Fred R. Thomas from building a fence between ols property and Dr. H. L. Waterman's on Elliot street was issued by Judge F. L. Fish and served by Deputy Sheriff C. E. Sparks's world famous shows appeared at Island park Monday and gave two performances. The afternoon attendance was only fair, but in the evening a large number were present. The show was good, some of the best of last year's features being presented, also many that were new this year. Ine brown-tall moth has appeared in Three were killed Satur day, and what remains of one is now at The Phoenix office. These are the only ones that have been reported, but doubtless others are here and have eg-caped notice. Mrs. Mary J. Underhill and Mrs. Addie C. Van Doorn were walking past Mrs. George W. Hooker's premises Saturday, when Mrs. Underhill who had seen brown-tail moths in Mas-sachusetts, saw two on a tree in Mrs. Hooker's yard. She killed them with a stick and found a third on the drinking fountain, killing that one also. They had pure white wings and the ends of the bodies were of deep brown. The finding of these insects should be a warning to all to be on the watch to prevent the pest from getting a foothold A large number of brown-tail moths were found in Keene last week One of the men who sells balloons with the circus lost about a dozen of the toys Monday morning just before the parade came up Main street. He was standing on the Main street bridge with a good display of the balloons in his possession an automobile passed him. man sitting in the rear seat of the ma-chine, which came from New Hampshire was lighting a cigar and as he passe the balloon vender he threw away the burning match. As the flame touched the light rubber of the first balloon there was a slight puff and the blue piece of rubber disappeared. There was a succession of puffs and then consternation on the part of the balloon man. The automobile continued on its way and the man who threw the match evidently did not realize the damage he had caused. The itinerant surveyed his stock in trade, sadly depleted, and with a shrug of his shoulders continued to ped-dle his wares.

There is a gray squirrel on the com mon which is very different from the others of its kind that make their home in that locality. He is a friendly little animal and many persons who have gone to the common to rest have been the recipients of his attention. He comes forward boldly and without hesitation forward boldly and without hesitation jumps up on the seats and into the laps of those whom he would like for friends, noses about for something to eat and if nothing is forthcoming sits on his haunches on the settee beside them and expresses his disappointment n an unmistakable way. He has learned that children often have peanuts or some other delicacy about them and rarely does a child remain about the ommon long without Mr. Squirrel approaching him, although he is a little more cautious with children than with grown-ups. A number of boys play ball nearly every afternoon on the common and here again the squirrel shows that he is not like his companions of the trees. He will run up to the boys and if they throw the ball he will chase it as does a kitten. He is very friendly with the pigeons that continually fly about the recreation spot and when a flock alights "his squirrelship" runs among them, flirts his tail in the air and cavorts like a colt in a resture. He and cavorts like a colt in a pasture. He has learned that dogs are not his frier and when he sees one approach the common he watches with a wary eye until it is almost upon him and then with a farewell wave of his tail scampers for a tree, there to remain until danger is passed.

this week on a three-room cottage which C. P. Spencer will have erected at Echo park, which he bought recently. Leslie Hudson of Chesterfield, visiting his mother at the Cutler farm on Western avenue last week, lost a horse valued at $200, the barn floor giving way and letting the animal fall through. Contrary to the general belief the trout season for brooks will close at midnight July 31, and not July 15. The season for ponds ends August 31. The season has not been a good one as the early fishing was spoiled by high water and since June 6 the lack of rain made conditions unfavorable.

A cold storage plant for Brattlebore A cold storage plant for Brattleboro is under consideration. Such a plant would be of great value to farmers and others having produce to sell, as it would enable them to realize on their products at times when the markets were dull. The subject will be investigated by a board of trade committee. George O. Abbott, proprietor of the Grang: store, bought the Winfield W. Whitney farm in Fialifax by auction Saturday for $1030. He will occupy it for a summer home. The farm contains about 200 acres of mowing, pasture and woodland and the house and barns are in excellent repair. The property is 12 miles from this town and about two and a half miles from West Halifax and fallfax Centre, Some household goods also were disposed of at good prices.

The anual report of the insurance commissioners of Vermont gives the total fire loss for the year in Windham county as $56,719.86, the number of fires and the amount of damage in the sev-eral towns being as follows: Brattleboro, 29, $6185.69; Brookline, 3, $1630; Dummers-ton, 5, $1011.85; Grafton, 5, $145.63; Guil-ford, 3, $7437.50; Jamaica, 3, $24.26; Lon-donderry, 8, $114.25; Mariboro, 1, $15.25; Newfane, 1, $8,56; Putney, 5, $2851.70; Rockingham, 18, $21,674.81; Townshend, 3, 452; Vernon, 2, $45; Wardsboro, 1, $3.25; Westminster, 6, $2910.36; Whitingham, 3, 83866; Wilmington, 7, $8343.75.

"Musical Seeley," who was advertised to appear at Island park for four nights this week, beginning Sunday night, came here Sunday morning on the "owl" train. He registered at the Brooks House and during the morning went to the park to look it over. He was displeased at the idea of doing his act on an open stage, but after a talk with Superintendent John Birch it is said he promised to fulfill his contract. In the afternoon Mr. Birch went to the barel to confer with the barel to confer wi went to the hotel to confer with the mu-sician and was told that "Musical Seeley" had left for Boston on the 4.17 train. Another act had to be obtained to fill Seeley's engagement.

Manager William Carpenter Hazelton of the Brattleboro baseball team is now a benedict. Mrs. Hazelton was formerly Miss Emma Louise Beach, and the nup-tial knot was tied Sunday evening in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Cora E. Beach, of Bay View street, Burlington, Rev. George Y. Bliss officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Hazelton came to this town Monday. They will live at the Brooks House during the summer and in the early fall they will return to Burlington. Mr. Hazelton has business interests in that city and during a part of the year is engaged in coaching the University of Vermont baseball team. The list of episodes has been completed for the historical pageant at Sara-toga Springs, N. Y., to be given Aug. 19 to 24, inclusive, under the direction of Miss Margaret MacLaren Eager, who directed the Brattleboro pageant this sum-mer. Few sections of New York state possess the wealth of historical and legndary lore that Saratoga does, and the pageant will be a feature of the sum-mer's festivities there. J. Crowell designing some costumes to be used in the production. The cast will include 1900 persons. There will be six per-formances of the episodes, also five programs of English and French dances under the direction of Miss Elsa Eager. Miss Jessie L. Hawley, who is spending the month at the Hawley cottage at York Beach, Me., intends to spend the next year in Brattleboro. She has been studying and teaching continuously 10 or more years. She spent four years, and more, at the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, under the cele-brated teacher and plano virtuoso, Carl Stasny, taking also harmony, composi-tion, sight playing and technique with the most competent instructors, including a course in normal work. In her Miss Hawley taught over 50 piano pupils, mostly advanced, each week and naturally found the life rather too strenuous to follow continuously. Miss Mary Bane of Lewiston, Me., a close friend of Miss Hawley, will make her home with Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hawley. 12 Chapin street, in the fall. Miss Bane is a voice teacher of marked ability and success. In her period of teaching at Mount Pleasant her class increased from 10 to rleasant ner cass increases from about 50. She is an especially gifted soprano singer and has had the rare advantage of voal study at the New Engand Conservatory and later at the celebrated Whitney school. Miss Bane teaches the Whitney method. There is some talk of a recital by these two young women in September.

The evening was spent in dancing and refreshments were served. Mrs. Horace French has sold her two tenement house at the corner of Hud-son and Reed streets to the Boston & Main railroad company. Possession will be given Aug. 1. George Goodale of Gardner, who is administrator of the Horace French estate, has been in town to close the deal.

The spring on Elm street near the bridge is a spot much sought out during the hot, dry days. As the water supply n general use about the town has had a bad taste and odor many persons go to the spring to fill jugs, pitchers and jars with the refreshing water that may be obtained there. On Monday morning in 20 minutes 18 men, women and children visited the spring and took water to their homes.

During the rain yesterday and following it thousands of toads, less than half an inch long, appeared in the north part of the town. This section has long been known as "Toad hill," and it surely lived up to its name. The little amphiblans were so numerous on the amphibians were so numerous on the sidewalks that it was difficult to walk without crushing one or more under foot and the lawns were thickly populated with them.

Several boys are trying to organize branch of the Boy Scouts in town, and anyone interested in joining is asked to communicate with Bryan Gale. A branch of the national organization was formed in this town more than a year ago, but it is not now active. Fritz Hanson has promised to aid the boys in their physical culture work and those at the head of the movement hope that lively organization will be formed.

Another crop-destroying deer was shot by Dana Stafford on his farm yesterday afternoon. It was a three-year-old buck, and immediately after shooting the animal Mr. Stafford notified Deputy Game Warden H. J. Allen. Deer have caused much damage to the Centreville farmer this summer and since Sunday they have damaged 30 young apple trees and quantities of beans, peas and other farm products. This is the second deer that has been shot by Mr. Stafford, and as he has a good eye more will be killed i they continue to damage his trees.

the general offices of the Hoosac Tun nel & Wilmington railroad Thursday morning that the work of changing that road from the narrow to standard guage is expected to be completed within the next six weeks. The company has already purchased 59 standard-guage cars and four locomotives. The Times is also informed from the same source that it, is the intention of the company to ex-tend the road through to Brattleboro, thus making a connection with the Bos-ton & Maine and Central Vermont lines, and thus providing the valley with a much-needed means of transportation to points north and east .- [Wilmington Attorney Drew, senior counsel of the the members of the boat committee ap-pointed at the meeting of the boat owners held last week conferred regarding the situation here about the logs in the river holding up traffic on the water. Mr. Drew wants to come to an amicable agreement, but the committee, which consists of Hayes Bigelow, C. P. Spencer and H. M. Wood, do not want to waste time in coming to the agree-ment, and unless some sort of an arrangement is made next week between he company and the committee legal ction will be brought by the local men through an attorney who has been engaged.

After five weeks of rainless weather during much of which the sun was scorching hot, a refreshing rain began falling early Sunday morning, and all though it came too late to save all the lawns it was the salvation of much vegetation, especially in gardens and fields. The first shower came about 3 o'clock and from then until 7 o'clock or later rain fell intermittently, the downpour at times being heavy. The total rainfall was .51 of an inch. The sun was .6bscured by clouds practically all day, which allowed the earth to soak up the water and kept it from being evapo rated. Some lawns and fields were redemption, because of the fact that early in the season there was so much rain that the roots spread out near the surface instead of growing down deep, and when the hot weather came many of the roots were burned up.

Following an altercation on the Retreat grounds Wednesday evening in which one of the participants was badly beaten, Dr. S. E. Lawton discharged the two men who took part in it. Yes-terday morning W. A. Trombley, who had been employed as an attendant at the institution, called at the state's at-torney's office and asked that a warrant the arrest of Alexander Squillette for the arrest of Alexander Squillette, an Italian employed as assistant to the chef be arrested. A warrant was issued charging Squillette with assault and battery and shortly after 4 o'clock he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff H. E. Harris. He was taken before Judge William R. Daley and after conferring with O. B. Hughes pleaded guilty to the charge and was fixed 500 and course. charge and was fined $20 and costs the costs amounting to $5.14, C. M. Miller, state's attorney's assistant, appear ed for the state. No testimony was heard out the state claimed that Squillette no only used his fists but that after a fight in which Trombley badly worsted him he re-appeared with an eight-inch knife and endeavored to carve the other man
